Fbook: Tomislav Medak

I am a PhD researcher at the Coventry University's Centre for Postdigital Cultures. I am also a part of the theory and publishing team of Multimedia Institute/MAMA, an amateur librarian for the Memory of the World & Pirate Care initiatives, and a member of the performing arts collective BADco. What I do is mostly defined by these collective endeavors.

My research interests are in technology, capitalist development and post-capitalist transition, with a particular focus on planetary ecological crisis, techno-science and intellectual property. I approach these from a Marxian and Degrowth perspective. Sometimes I also present and write on theatre, dance, disability and politics.

Education

2018-2021
(expected)

PhD in Arts & Humanities; Coventry University

Supervisors: Professor Gary Hall and Assistant Professor Janneke Adema

Disrupting technology – can the planetary technosphere be politically steered toward a post-capitalist metabolism?

1993-1998

BA & MA in Philosophy and German Language; University of Zagreb
